

ABSTRACT

A method and system for liquefaction monitoring of a gas in a gas piping system in which pressure and temperature information about the gas is gathered and the liquefaction status
5 of the gas is determined and reported.